Sue, I'm fine with it being reprinted without alteration and full credit.

Thanks for being in touch. Could you send a copy of the story?

Thanks,

Hi Susan,

I'm sending this email as I believe you wrote an article titled "Back to BASICS 40 years later" in 2004 for "Vox of Dartmouth". I have referred to the article a few times as I have an interest in the history of computers. I now notice the article is no longer online. I would like to republish the article on my online technology website. Are you happy for me to republish the article? You will remain as article author with credits to Dartmouth and I will send you a link to the new location. I can obtain the original article from the Wayback Machine to republish it. I think an article that quotes Tom Kurtz should remain accessible to others interested in computer history. I hope you are able to help.

Thanks your time.

Regards, Dan
